

STAT

STAT

Approved For Release 2005/07/14 : CIA-RDP86B00985R000100080023-9

STAT

Coordinator for Academic Relations
Central Intelligence Agency
Room 7 G B 1
Washington, D. C. 20505

Dear Jim:

During my retirement years, I have until recently been giving a seminar at the University's request for selected seniors. I am taking the liberty of writing you about one of those seniors.

STAT

Three years ago, [] was in the upper brackets in one of these seminars. He was interested in going into intelligence work and talked to me several times about the possibilities. I encouraged him then and have continued to encourage him to look at the possibilities in the C.I.A. He is a capable and well-balanced individual, and I feel that the enclosed curriculum vitae and statement of his objectives, which were written by him at my suggestion, can be taken at face value. I would recommend him to you for serious consideration.

STAT

STAT

If there is any interest in interviewing him by the C.I.A., he could be contacted from August 4-8 and 12-13 in Washington, D. C. at [] If this is not feasible, perhaps he could be informed as to the most appropriate way for making application for future employment at the C.I.A. His mailing address during the dates mentioned will be [] His permanent address is []

STAT

I hope that all goes well with you in your present work. I am glad to see developing a bit more sanity in public attitudes toward intelligence agencies and the necessity for intelligence operations.

With warm personal regards to you and yours, I am

Cordially,

STAT
STAT

Approved For Release 2005/07/14 : CIA-RDP86B00985R000100080023-9

STAT

Approved For Release 2005/07/14 : CIA-RDP86B00985R000100080023-9

Next 1 Page(s) In Document Exempt

Approved For Release 2005/07/14 : CIA-RDP86B00985R000100080023-9